Management Philosophy

Toyo Gosei is conducting business to support the advancement of civilization through projects based on human talent, creativity, science, and technologies. Then Toyo Gosei growing itself to increase its contribution.

The concept of Medium-term Management Plan

In the field of electronic materials, where demand is expected to grow further in the future, we will further refine the high-purity synthesis that we have cultivated over many years and our refining technology as well as strengthen a stable supply system that meets customer quality, then achieve growth in people, organizations, and businesses. As the result we contribute to the realization of a sustainable decarbonized society as the world's No.1.

Vision of the Medium-term Management Plan

We will create the future by taking each customer issue and technical issue seriously, solving them from an original perspective, then achieving both ultra-high quality as the world's No. 1 DANTOTSU (outstanding) and productivity improvement.

Financial Results for the Q1 FY2023

- Sales were 15,055 million yen (YoY -14%) due to the impact of sluggish semiconductor demand and inventory adjustments.
- Operating profit was 1,297 million yen (YoY -55%) due to cost reduction efforts in response to declining demand from the beginning of the fiscal year.
- Compared to initial plans, sales were below target, but operating profit was almost achieved, ordinary profit +8%, and net profit +15%.
- Investments to increase production capacity will continue in preparation for medium and long- term market expansion in the next fiscal year and beyond.

Variance Analysis: Operating profit

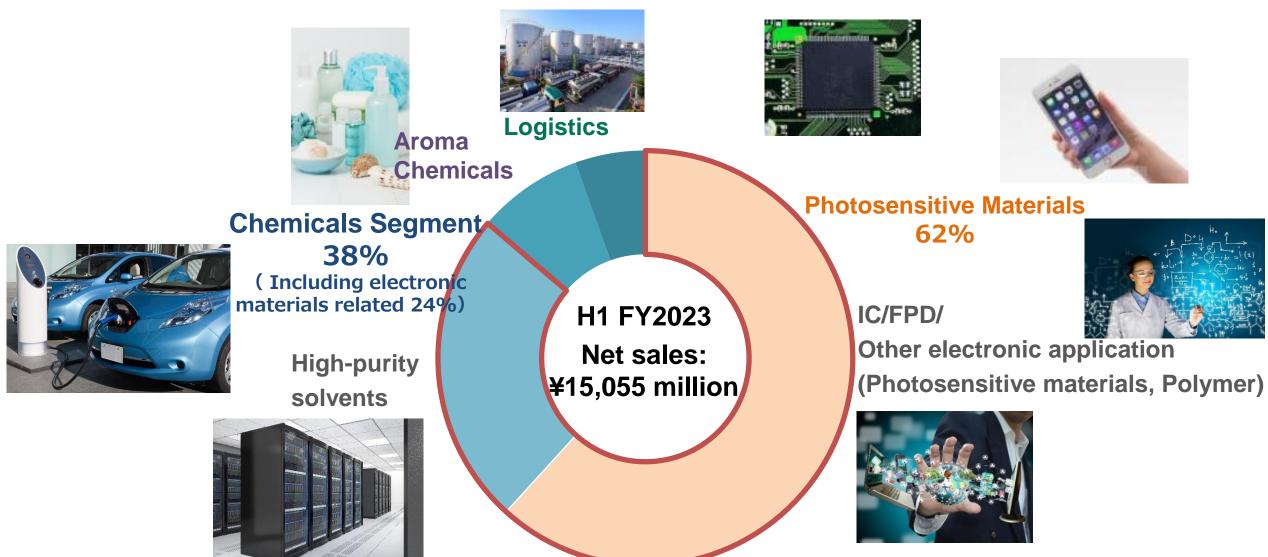

• While cost reduction efforts in response to lower sales, the planned 1 billion yen increase in expenses for the first half was limited to approximately 0.4 billion yen as timing adjustments and other arrangement to secure operating income of 1.29 billion yen at the level of the earnings forecast.

(Billion yen)

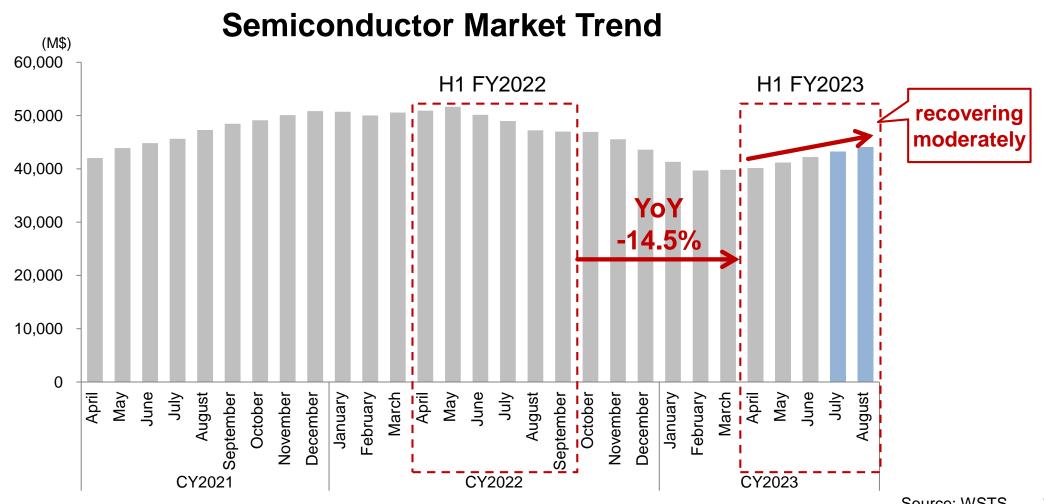

• Net sales of semiconductor and electronic materials-related products accounted for 86% of total sales.

Semiconductor Market Trend

- WSTS expects the growth rate in 2023 to be -10.3% YoY.
- April-September average sales were -14.5% YoY, while semiconductor sales bottomed out in February and are now recovering moderately.

Quarterly Sales, Operating profit & Sales Growth Rate Trend

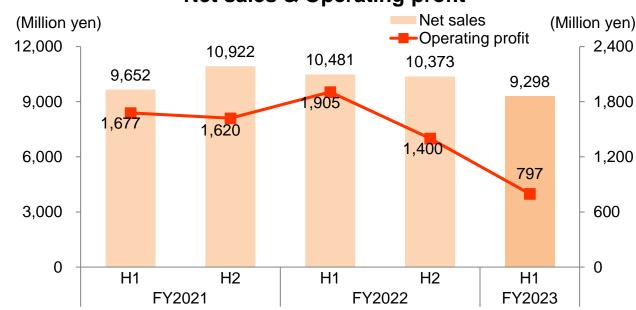

- Sluggish demand for semiconductors and inventory adjustments in the supply chain will last longer than expected
- Sales had been declining since peaking in Q4 of the fiscal year ending March 2022, but are expected to bottom out in Q2.

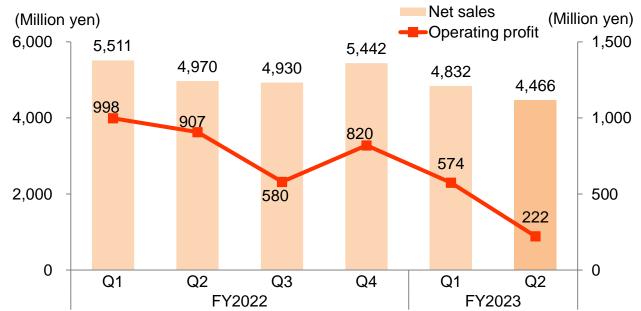

Quarterly Sales, Operating profit & Sales Growth Rate

Net sales: ¥9,298 million

YoY: (¥1,183) million, (11%)

- Sales of materials for semiconductors decreased due to sluggish demand and inventory adjustments in the supply chain.
- In materials for displays, large LCD panel production remained strong, especially in China.

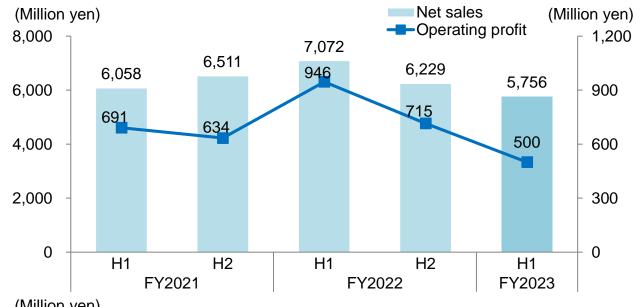

Operating profit: ¥797 million

YoY: (¥1,108) million, (58%)

- Profit decreased due to decreased sales of materials for advanced semiconductors.
- Continued to increase production capacity investment as planned in preparation for demand expanding period.

Net sales & Operating profit

1,200 Net sale: ¥5,756 million

YoY: (¥1,316) million, (18%)

- In the electronic materials sector, demand continued to decline due to inventory adjustments, but has bottomed out.
- Overseas demand for flavor and fragrance materials recovered ahead of the market.
- In the logistics business, although cargo movements continue to be sluggish, tank contract rates remain at a high level.

Operating profit: ¥500 million

YoY: (¥446) million, (47%)

 Profit decreased due to decreased sales of electronic materials.

H1 FY2023 Income Statement

- Sales were 15,055 million yen (-14% YoY) due to weak semiconductor demand and inventory adjustments.
- Gross profit was 3,326 million yen (-33% YoY) due to lower sales of high value-added products resulting from inventory adjustments in the semiconductor market and production adjustments associated with inventory reductions.

H1 FY2023 Balance sheet

- Inventories ¥-488 million: Inventory reduction in line with declining demand.
- Trade payables ¥-1,984 million: Reduction of raw material purchases to meet declining demand.
- Tangible fixed assets ¥+2,167 million: Continued investment to increase production capacity in preparation for the demand recovery period.
- Borrowings ¥+3,171 million: Increase in capital investment funds.
- Shareholders' equity ¥+757 million: Net profit increase.

2. Projection for the FY2023

3. Future Outlook

World Economy

The risk of economic downturn remains high, but the inflation rate in each country is gradually decreasing.
 Price hikes are expected to subside, followed by a gradual recovery in demand.

Electronic material industry

- Inventory adjustment is progressing steadily in the semiconductor industry.
 Demand is expected to bottom out by the end of the year, start increasing from January 2024 onwards, and then recover moderately.
- Display demand will remain the same \sim moderately increase.

■ Flavor and Fragrance Industry

Demand recovery will continue, especially overseas.

Revision to Full-year Earnings Forecasts for the FY2023

- Sales have been revised to take into account the delay in demand recovery and gradual recovery trend in the overall semiconductor market.
- Sales were ¥15,944 million (forecast) in the second half, compared to ¥15,055 million (actual) in the first half, showing an upward trend.
- Profits were maintained at the initial forecast due to cost reduction activities and other factors.

Photoresist market forecast for semiconductors

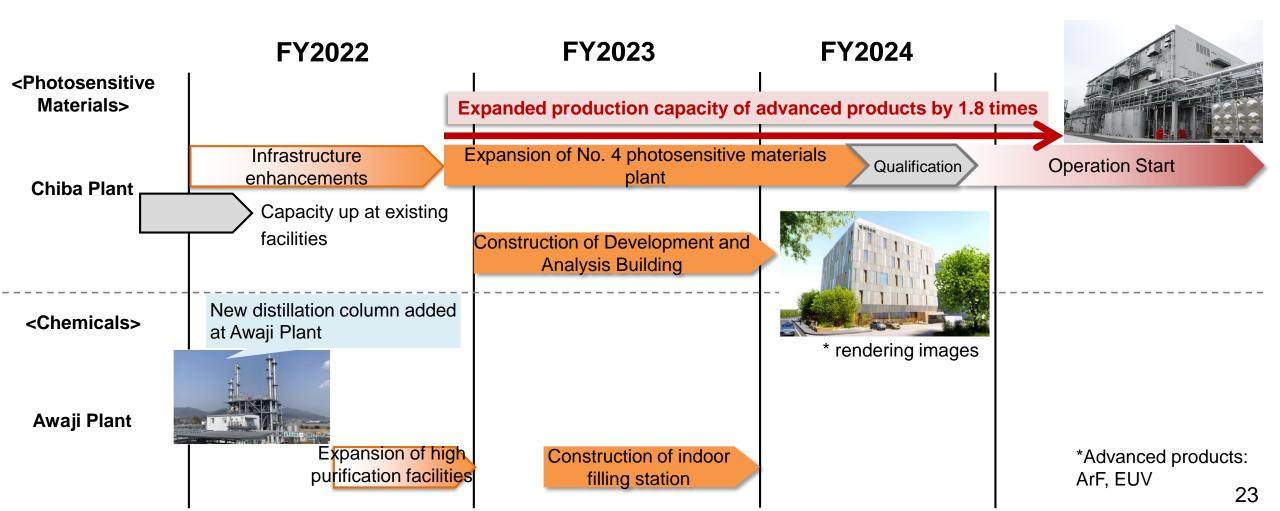

- Negative growth is expected in 2023, but return to positive growth is expected from 2024 onward.
- Demand for EUV resists will grow 2.4 times from 2023 to 2027.
- Advanced resist (EUV+ArF) is also expected to expand 1.3 times.

Investment to achieve the "Beyond 500" medium-term management plan

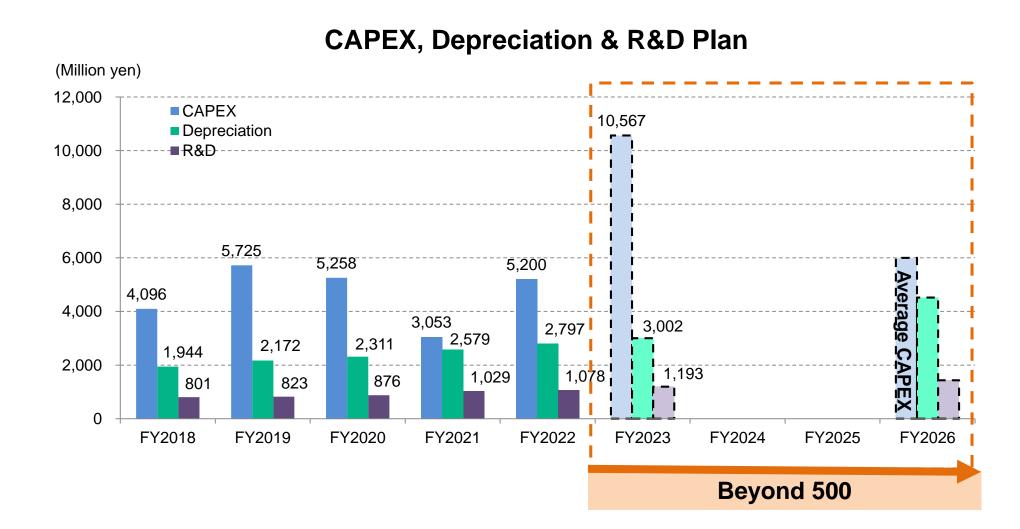

- The semiconductor market will return to high growth from 2024 onward after a production adjustment in 2023.
- To meet growing demand, constructing photosensitive materials manufacturing facilities, development and analysis building, and high purity solvent facilities as planned in the mid-term plan.

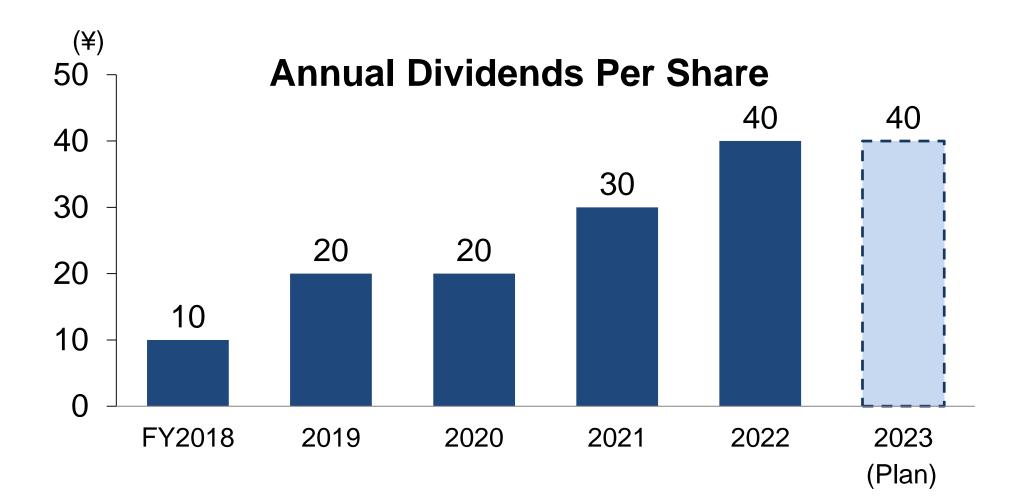

CAPEX, Depreciation & R&D Plan

- Changed from ¥11,700 million to ¥10,567 million due to the delayed timing of some capital expenditures.
- However, major investments are proceeding as planned in preparation for demand expanding period.

• Based on a stable dividend policy and expecting medium-term growth, an annual dividend of 40 year stay for the fiscal year ending March 31, 2024.

Appendix

Re-post) FY2023 Fixed cost increase forecast

 Continue to increase production capacity to achieve Beyond 500 (Net sales ¥50 billion, Operating profit ¥8 billion ~FY2026).

Expansion of photosensitive materials manufacturing facilities

Amount of Investment: Approx. ¥12 billion

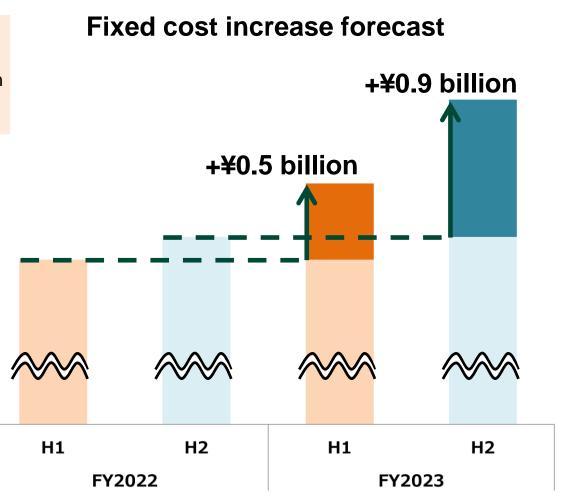

Completion scheduled for Jul. 2024.

New development and analysis building Amount of Investment: Approx. ¥3 billion Completion scheduled for Apr. 2024.

*rendering images

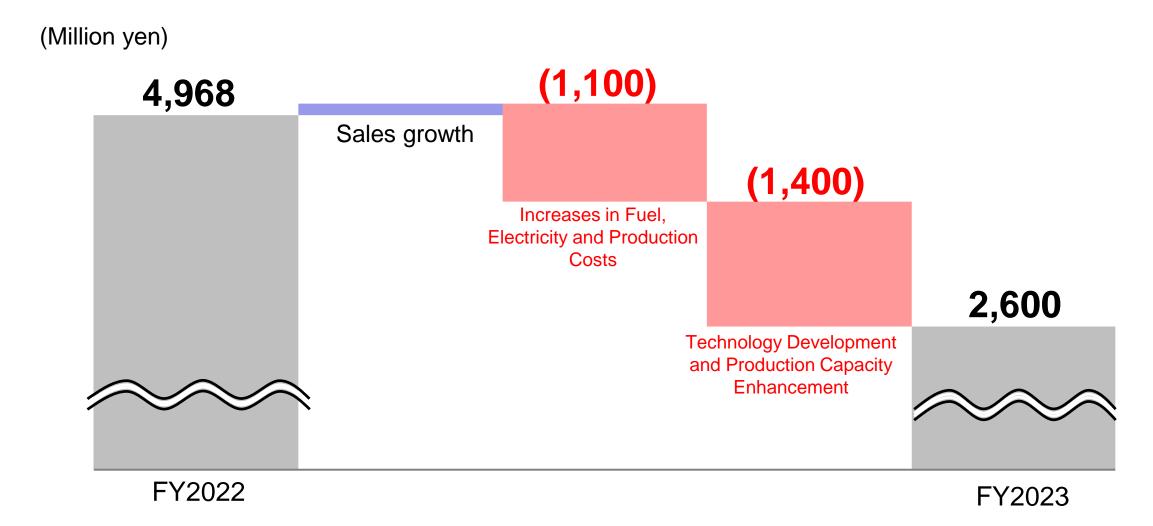

Assumed fixed cost increase of 1.4 billion yen from the previous year (Increase in headcount, facility expansion, technology development)

Re-post) Variance Analysis: FY2023 Operating profit

• Expenses increase YoY by ¥1,400 million for technology development and production capacity enhancement as well as increases in fuel, electricity, and production costs are expected.

Individual Development, to the global Chemical
